Title: My Guild Prayer

Author: Shadara
-----

I have been asked many times, what are my goals? My prayer, is that these words, will explain them more in depth than what I can answer
quickly, on the spot,
when asked while
many are gathered in
friendly conversation.
Because, to realize
one's goals, one must first stop to ponder
what they truly are,
not just answer,
giving no thought as
to how it might effect
the guild as a whole.
I view the guild as
an extension of myself. My extended family, if you will. I know that my main
purpose is to serve the guild well. To be an elite member,
commanding respect
from not only my
fellow guildmembers,
but the respect of all
people I come in contact with in this
wonderous land, Britannia.
In order to do this I
must continually make proper conduct my main goal. I must be a lady at all times. I know that I am truly a flirt. I love smiling, I love showing my emotions. My number one goal however, is that I not be taken as a silly girl, or worse, a fool. My next goal in being a member of this family
is that I not become a
loose string in the tapestry. I want to be united with all,
associated with, as a
true friend and
comandante. One that

all members would
gladly want to stand
beside them in battle
as well as in peace.
To do this I must possess the will to fight and guard the
and those less fortunate than myself. I must possess the ability and
knowledge the battle
enemies on their on ground, but on my
terms. I must show
compassion and humility
and strengthen myself with all the virtues. I have a goal
best" Druid I possibly can
be. For me to be the best means that I must realize a number of smaller, but not less important goals. My goal is to walk everyday setting and realizing the smaller goals strengthen myself to carry the ultimate goal of being a trusted and accomplished member. One that the guild holds high, and
proudly accepts into
their family.
I see them prioritized:
Virtuous Woman, Master
of my Skills, Friend to
GoV.
